

It doesn't take long for the explicit will of the people to be felt. Ebert's next move is to remove the radical Berlin police chief Emil Eichhorn from office. Eichhorn refuses to leave, and hundreds of thousands of working people come out onto the streets in his support. Suddenly, it seems very clear who the socialists really are...

Sunday, 5th January 1919.

No one knows who starts the shout

TO THE VORWÄRTS BUILDING!

but the crowd moves as one.

Vorwärts newspaper is a symbol of the SPD sell-out. When war broke out, the trusted socialist party paper became a propaganda sheet, praising first the Kaiser, and now the new emperor in his new clothes.

